P13:

~~There are~~ Studies have found that families are spending less and less time together. One of the reasons is the demands of social life, and the other is technology. ~~On the one hand~~[For one thing], high demands lead parents to be tired and busy, so they cannot devote much time to communicating with their children. ~~On the other hand~~[For another], TVs and digital devices also distract both parents and children, and thus, negatively affect face-to-face interactions among family members. Therefore, there is less meaningful communications left when family members spend time together, because all their attention has been drawn to social media and chatting apps.
